

Flexible travel and fares

Our pay as you go fares and automatic price capping mean you can always travel flexibly

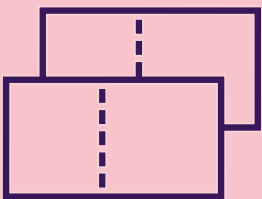

Pay as you go

Using your contactless bank card or device, or an Oyster card, to pay as you go is easy and flexible

Travelling with pay as you go means you only pay for the journeys you make, which is perfect if you commute flexibly. You don't need to buy a Travelcard in advance - just touch in and out on each journey and you'll always pay the correct fare. Using a contactless bank card or device also means that you don't need to top up an Oyster card.

Automatic weekly capping on both payment methods means you can pay as you go and you will never pay more than the equivalent cost of a weekly Travelcard between Monday and Sunday.

Travel later for less

Travel into central London after the morning peak to enjoy off-peak fares, including during afternoon and evening peak times

Off-peak fares apply to our rail services between 09:30 and 16:00 and after 19:00 on weekdays, and during weekends and bank holidays. However, if you travel into Zone 1 after 09:30, you will always be charged an off-peak fare, even during the afternoon and evening peak.

Track your travel

Keep track of your journeys by downloading our app or signing up for an online account

Download the TfL Oyster and contactless app or create an online account to view your journey and payment history, making it easy to claim expenses for work or request refunds. If circumstances prevent you from completing your journey, we'll often automatically refund you within two days. You are also able to ask for a refund.

To find out more about our fares and ways to pay, visit tfl.gov.uk/fares